

U.S MAY DETERMINE APPAM IS PRIZE AND TURN HER TO CAPTORS

INDICATIONS ARE PRUSSIAN-AMERICAN TREATY WILL GOVERN SITUATION.

NO NEW LIGHT ON THE RAIDER

Government Learns Nothing New Regarding Ship Which Has Created Much Havoc.

BULLETIN.

(Associated Press)
Old Point Comfort, Va., Feb. 2.—Quarantine officers have been given to understand that the raider which sank seven ships and captured the liner Appam, was built since the war began and escaped into the Atlantic through the Kiel canal.
The Appam was fired with bombs which could be touched off by the prize crew in case of an uprising among the 400 captives.

CARRIED BULLION.

(Associated Press)
London, Feb. 2.—It is understood that the Appam carried a half million pounds sterling bullion, and this will probably be claimed as a prize, as it is contraband.

(Associated Press)

Washington, Feb. 2.—The state department officials today indicated that the British liner Appam, which put into port at Hampton Roads yesterday in the hands of a German prize crew, will finally be held as a prize, and that the Prussian-American treaty is more likely to govern the solution of the situation than is the Hague convention.

This means that the Appam may be turned over to her German captors, who could take the ship to the three mile limit and sink her. In case she is held to be a German fleet auxiliary, she will have to leave port or intern until the end of the war.

Get No New Facts.

Norfolk, Va., Feb. 2.—No new light has been thrown on the mysterious German raider Moewe which captured the Appam and sank seven other British vessels off the African coast. It is reported that the Appam has aboard large quantities of explosives, probably part of her 8000 tons of her general cargo, which she was carrying when caught. It has been determined that all persons must remain aboard the Appam until her status is determined.

Norfolk, Feb. 2.—The exploits of the German raider Emden, which destroyed many merchant ships early in the war, were overshadowed when the British liner Appam, believed lost off the African coast, came into port flying the German flag and manned by a German crew of twenty-two men—a prize of war.

She was captured by the German torpedo boat Moewe, which was disguised as a tramp steamer, and she carried 400 persons, many of whom had been taken from seven other vessels, sunk by the Moewe.

The Moewe, a vessel of 650 tons, had not false smokestacks, as had the Emden, but she flew the British ensign and wore false sides. When she bore down upon the Appam she lowered her false sides and the British flag, ran up the German ensign and displaced a full armament of guns.

The Appam, though armed with three-inch guns, surrendered without a fight to avoid destruction.

Prisoners Help Man Ship.
The Moewe carried a crew of 102 men, and twenty-two of these, with twenty German prisoners who were on board the Appam, brought the ship into port.

Before the real story of the Appam's capture came out it had been stated, first, that she was captured by a German submarine, and later that a tramp, accompanied by a torpedo boat, had taken her.

WILSON ENCOUNTERED NOISIEST CROWD YET

UNIVERSITY OF KANSAS STUDENTS GAVE PRESIDENT LUSTY WELCOME

CHILDREN NEAR TRAGIC DEATH

(Associated Press)
Topeka, Kas., Feb. 2.—President Wilson's special train arrived here at 10:10 o'clock this morning. At Lawrence a crowd of several thousand, including students of the Kansas university, greeted the President. Snow was on the ground and the temperature was below zero, but the crowd was the noisiest which has yet met Wilson, and his appearance on the rear platform was loudly cheered.

Des Moines, Ia., Feb. 2.—Five school children narrowly escaped being crushed by President Wilson's private car while he was delivering a brief rear platform speech here. Hundreds of persons were massed around the car in the little enclosure at the Rock Island station to see and hear the President and get a glimpse of Mrs. Wilson. Several bright faced school children were holding on the platform peering up at them.
Through error in signalling or a false move of the engineer, the President's train backed several feet before starting. The President in the midst of a sentence saw five of the children thrown under the car. Horror-stricken, he leaped over the car railing calling out that the car be stopped.

It seemed as if the children were certain of being killed by the car wheels. Militiamen who had tried unavailingly to keep the crowd back succeeded in pulling the children from under the wheels before it was too late. In an instant the direction of the train was reversed and all of the children were out of danger.
Mr. Wilson was visibly affected by the narrow escape of the children.

BOARD ADHERED TO BRICK PAVING PLAN

PROPERTY OWNERS WITHDREW OBJECTIONS AND BOARD DECIDED TO GO AHEAD

The proposed improvement of Depot avenue from Third to Fifth streets, and Fourth street from Depot to College avenue, with brick pavement was again up for public hearing this morning in the council rooms. Some of the property owners on Fourth street who thought they would rather have macadam when the matter was taken up yesterday, as the expense would not be as great as brick, withdrew objections after learning that many others held for brick, and so this morning there was no objection to going ahead with the improvement and the scheme was adhered to by the board of local improvements.

M'CORMACK MAY SING HERE

Great Tenor May Come to Dixon for Recital in Near Future.

Dixon musical circles are agog that John McCormack, the great tenor, may appear here in a recital in the near future. The details of the arrangements for bringing the vocalist here have not been made public by those in charge, nor is it known just when he will come—but the mere announcement that Dixon people may have an opportunity of hearing him is sufficient to arouse great interest.

HIT TRAMP IN EAR ELMHURST

Human Head Found On Engine Pilot Was the Victim's.

Railroad officials yesterday learned that the human head which was found on the pilot of the engine on North Western passenger train No. 10, when it pulled into the Chicago terminal on Monday afternoon, was that of a tramp who had been struck near Elmhurst. The man approached the track from the fireman's side of the engine, as the fireman was shoveling coal, which accounts for none of the crew knowing of the accident until the train reached the terminal in Chicago.

DIXON PHYSICIAN TO ADDRESS MEETING

DR. S. W. LEHMAN WILL DISCUSS SOCIAL HYGIENE BEFORE THE TEACHERS

ESSAY TO BE ENTERED FOR PRIZE

Social hygiene will be discussed in a paper to be read by Dr. S. W. Lehman of this city before the members of the teachers' association of White side county at a meeting in Sterling Thursday afternoon. It is regretted that an outline of the paper cannot be given because of the fact it is a prize essay to be submitted to a committee of prominent educators, among them Mrs. Ella Flagg Young. "Shall or shall not the child be told the mysteries of life?" is a much-mooted question and is troubling many educators. Parents shirk the duty or are unfit, and the problem is passed on to the teacher. Dr. Lehman approaches the question from a standpoint that is in the main overlooked from the spiritual side—in a paper that can be heard without offense in a mixed audience.
Taking for his authority the Bible, Dr. Lehman contends that man, created in the likeness of God, is spiritual and that virtue is a spiritual attribute, and is attainable only through an appeal to the spiritual in man's nature. Biology and physiology deal only with the physical body, the animal side; a correct knowledge of the physical side is not a safeguard of virtue—in fact, too great stress on the physical is only too apt to defeat the purpose for which such instruction was intended, and instill prurient curiosity. The body should be the servant of the soul. Should the Seventh Commandment be transgressed, a degeneration of the mind and the body be allowed to become mental and physical is brought about, with spiritual death.
Holding that social purity is more surely attained by the development of the graces of the mind—sympathy, purity, charity, kindness, etc., than by the instruction of children in regard to the physical side of life's mysteries. Dr. Lehman made it clear that these mysteries should always be held sacred, only to be touched upon from the spiritual side by the parent or competent advisor, and that such instruction should be given as the child develops, and should be suited to the stage of development.

Freeport, Feb. 1.—Burns which he received at the Illinois Central engine house on the afternoon on Jan. 20th, proved fatal to Wm. Haase, who died at 11 o'clock last evening. The accident which caused Mr. Haase's death was the blowing out of a plug on a locomotive. The boiler was being filled with steam when Mr. Haase happened to notice that the steam plug was leading. While he was attempting to tighten it, it is said, the plug blew out and the escaping steam struck him.

Continue Hearing In Ide Case; Wife's Condition Serious

Defendant Unable To Furnish $800 Bonds Was Sent To County Jail

The preliminary hearing of the case of Seymour Ide, arrested on the charge of assault and battery with a deadly weapon, was called late Tuesday afternoon before Justice Geo. W. Hill and on account of the condition of his wife, whom it is alleged that he struck with a pitch fork, being such that it would be ten days at least before she could appear in court, the hearing was continued until Feb. 11 at 9 a. m. The defendant was placed under $800 bonds and being unable to furnish them he was sent to the county jail. The condition of Mrs. Ide is quite serious and a more serious charge may be preferred later.

CREW HAD TROUBLE WITH 'NUTTY' WALKER

PEORIA PASSENGER TRAINMEN HAD FUN WITH MAN DETERMINED TO RIDE.

The conductor of the Peoria passenger train had considerable trouble on Monday morning with a man between Nelson and Dixon who would not get off the track. The engineer saw the man and whistled for him to get off. The man paid no attention to the signal. The engineer slackened his speed and yelled to the man but he paid not the slightest attention. Supposing the man was deaf, the engineer after repeated whistlings stopped his train. The conductor and others of the crew went forward to the man and grabbed him and shoved him off the track. He then turned around and jumped on the pilot. He was pulled from the pilot and jumped on the rear end of the engine. He was pulled from there and he said he was going to ride anyhow, and jumping on one of the coaches he said he was going to Dixon and was going to ride, too, and pulling some change from his pocket paid his fare. He was neither drunk nor tief but it is thought by the crew that he was a little "nutty." When the train arrived at Dixon he very politely hopped off and staid off. He was a stranger, as no one on the train had seen him before.

BUT ONE VERDICT BY JURY DURING PRESENT TERM CIRCUIT COURT

JURORS WERE EXCUSED BY JUDGE HEARD THIS MORNING FOR TERM.

LOOKED LIKE VERY BUSY TERM

But Sickness and Other Causes Kept Attorneys From Carrying Out Hard Schedule.

The jury work of the present term of the circuit court is over, the jury having been discharged this morning for the term. At the opening of the term it appeared that there would be much work, but as the term advanced cases set for trial were either dismissed or passed for the term. As a result the first panel of jurors did not sit in a case. There were but two jury cases during the term and in only one instance was a verdict returned, that being the criminal case of William Hawkins, indicted for larceny, who was acquitted by the jury. The other jury case was a damage suit brought by Anton Kuegren against the Illinois Central Railroad company, and this was taken from the jury by the court and they were instructed to find for the defendant.
The criminal case of Hugh Senneff was set for tomorrow but Attorney Erwin, who represents the defendant, made a motion in court this morning that the case be continued for the term as he did not feel strong enough to try a case and the motion was granted. Court will remain in session for the next couple of weeks as there are several chancery matters to be acted upon. It is quite likely that Judge Heard will remain to finish the term.

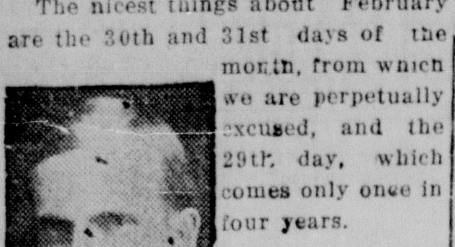

CEMENT EXPERT WAS VISITOR HERE TUESDAY

DOUGLAS DRUMMOND CONFERRED WITH CITY OFFICIALS ON PAVEMENT

Douglas Drummond, a representative of the American Portland Cement Manufacturers, was here from Chicago Tuesday to confer with the city officials as to what success the concrete roadways so far built in this city are giving. All the cement manufacturers have united in pushing their product for road building and have organized a corps of expert cement men and engineers to go to all places where concrete roads are to be built as well as those in course of construction to see that the work is not slighted in any particular. He was present at the public hearing on the proposed concrete roadway to be built in the west end and addressed the meeting as to the number of miles of roadway built during the past year, which averaged greater than that of brick, and the cost was only about two-thirds as much as a brick pavement.

FEBRUARY.

The nicest things about February are the 30th and 31st days of the month, from which we are perpetually excused, and the 29th day, which comes only once in four years.

February comes along when everybody is tired of winter and is about as welcome as the ninth piece of pie, or a second attack of the mumps. February is just like January, only more so at times, but the calendar isn't hard-hearted enough to compel mankind to serve out all of the usual thirty-day sentence. Brevity is the sole cause of February's popularity and this should be a lesson to every lecturer.

In February the day grow longer, but this pleasure is offset by the annoyance of receiving telegrams and souvenir cards from friends who are sitting in the sunshine in California and exaggerating the climate in perfect safety. More than one man has risen in the middle of an Illinois February night, and has accumulated 50 miles of north wind under his night shirt while he stood at his front door and receipted for a telegram from his wife in Pasadena telling him that the roses are performing the air as she sits on the hotel porch without wraps.

Once upon a time a person made a famous remark that nothing is impossible. Here are some things that person never tried to do.

He never tried to convince his wife that she didn't need a new hat.

He never tried to cut a pane of glass with a 10-cent glass cutter.

He never tried to unscrew the top from a glass fruit jar with his bare hands.

He never tried to look dignified in a celluloid collar.

He never tried to hook his wife's dress up the back in a hurry.

He never tried to make league and ball pay in a town where the grass grows in the streets.

Most Time for 'Em Now

A canvas barn, a painted tree,
A slow New England drawl;
A large square room with two or three
Worked mottoes on the wall;
A hint of wicked city life
By someone in the cast,
Who plays an honest farmer's wife
With something of a past.
A man from town whose shirt is clean
And has at least two suits
To brighten up the rural scene
Of overalls and boots.
A cow, if one can be secured,
A soft nosed mare, named Bess;
A dog or two and you're assured
Unqualified success.
Just take these few ingredients
And mix them as you may,
And keep them free from common sense;
You'll have a rural play.

Harvey Sindlinger left on the morning train for Oregon on business.

Although February contains only 28 days it is our most eventful month. Its greatest feat has been the production of both Washington and Lincoln. This grateful nation makes holidays of both birthdays, thus reducing the working days in February to 22, and making it enormously popular with bank clerks and government employees. In February also St. Valentine's day occurs. It is a fine day on which to get even with some enemy who is too large to lick by sending him a beautiful tinted portrait of a fat man with a tomato nose and large fuzzy ears and writing his name underneath so he will catch the resemblance.

But February is chiefly noted for its 29th day, which occurs once in four years, thus producing what is known as "leap year." This name is derived from the fact that in this year unmarried young women are supposed to leap ferociously upon eligible young men and drag them shrieking to the altar. The open season lasts all year and is of great assistance in riding the world of bachelors.

An extra day every four years is a great boon, even if it is in February, and thus far little use of it seems to have been made. It might be a good plan to preserve the 29th of February as the day on which to read the gold mining and coffee plantation circulars that have accumulated during the preceding four years.

WILSON FOR TAMMANY?

Joe Johnson, Tammany Man, to Be Named Postmaster of New York.

The announcement from Washington that President Wilson has selected Joe Johnson, long a friend of, and one of the right or left bowers of Charles F. Murphy, boss of Tammany Hall, for New York, has brought about a storm. The president's civil service reform friends in New York believe he is making this appointment to placate Tammany for the coming national convention. Johnson has held several offices in the city government, all of which he obtained because of his loyalty to Murphy.

Aurora, Ill.—Aurora has eight motion picture theatres, yet Frank Colwell, 69 years old, and one of the oldest residents in the city, has never been in the "movies." He has a wife and several children who are "movie fans" and who never miss a new picture, but they have never been able to get him inside a theater.

Mrs. Foster Stanbrough was in town Tuesday.

Miss Grace Funk of Oregon was here Tuesday.

Praises Preacher Called To Dixon Congregational Church

The National Prohibitor, a weekly paper published at Des Moines, Iowa, in the cause of prohibition has the following concerning Rev. W. C. Barber of that city who has been called to the pulpit of the Congregational church of this city. It is expected that Rev. Barber, who about 14 years ago was pastor at Lee Center, will accept the call. The Prohibitor says:

January 1, 1916, the people of Iowa awoke to find themselves living in a dry state. On that date the bill repealing the mulct law became effective and the legalized saloon was a thing of the past and that, we believe forever, insofar as Iowa is concerned. The mulct law which gave life to the saloon was consigned to the grave at the age of 21 years and 6 months. If any man should be proud of the fight he made to secure the repeal of this law that man is W. C. Barber, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league. On Sept. 1, 1906, he aligned himself with the league as field secretary, and on Sept. 1, 1907, he became its state superintendent. During all these years he has made a hard, consistent fight for the overthrow of the legalized saloon and for the enforcement of the prohibitory law, and at the same time kept Iowa playing a prominent part in the national congress for remedial and prohibitory measures, as evidenced by the Webb-Kenyon bill and

MELLOW-SWEET IS TASTE OF "SPEAR HEAD"

Most Richly-Flavored Chew That Was Ever Pressed Into Plugs

FAVORITE FOR A GENERATION

Red-blooded men with real tobacco hunger find that they can satisfy it only by chewing, and the most wholesome and satisfying tobacco to chew is that made in plug form.

The limit of luxury in tobacco chewing is the rich, sweet, juicy flavor that trickles through your system when you chew Spear Head.

No other chewing tobacco is so mellow, so luscious and so satisfying. No other equals Spear Head for putting a keen edge on your appetite.

Spear Head is made of the world's best tobacco leaf—the choicest of red Kentucky Burley. This leaf is selected for its full, juicy richness with the most painstaking care, is stemmed by hand, is pressed into Spear Head plugs so slowly that not a drop of the rich, natural juice escapes.

Your first chew of Spear Head will open your eyes to the genuine enjoyment there is in chewing.

Chew the rich and mellow tobacco that has been the favorite for a third of a century—that's Spear Head. Try a 5c or 10c cut.

Colonial Luncheon

The Colonial luncheon given by the Phidian Art club at the Nachusa tavern Tuesday afternoon, the second annual luncheon of the club, was a delightful affair. Some fifty were present, members and guests.

The study of the United States, its history and art, particularly of the Eastern section, furnished the motif for the luncheon which was colonial in detail as far as was possible. Seated at quartet tables, the following menu was enjoyed:

Blue Points
Roast Tenderloin of Beef
Mashed Potatoes Peas in Patties
Shrimp Salad
Neapolitan Ice Cream and Cake
Roquefort Cheese
Coffee

Interspersed with articles of food on the menu were quaint quotations from authors of the Colonial times.

A program of much interest followed the luncheon. Little Miss Katherine Durkes, wearing a colonial costume, the skirt of pink and a polonaise of quaint flowered stuff, with the black patches upon her face as in those ancient times, (though having a slight revival at present) and her hair in curls, danced prettily the Colonial dances, giving two numbers. She was so dainty and dear that all the ladies were quite charmed. Her aunt, Miss Emma Canterbury, accompanied her. A Victrola number, presenting McCormack and Kreisler, followed the dancing and was greatly enjoyed.

It was whispered about among the ladies that McCormack was to appear in Dixon not so many months hence, but just when or where was not divulged. An opportunity to hear this superb Irish singer here would certainly be a treat and we will all dream about it. The McCormack-Kreisler number was followed by another Victrola number, a Hawaiian waltz.

The topic for the afternoon was the city of Washington, and papers were read by Mrs. E. T. Bailey, Miss Woodbridge, and Miss Florence Bosworth. Mrs. Bailey's paper told of the Cocheran Art Gallery, which contains so many art treasures. The works of two great American artists, George Innes and Gilbert Stuart, are well represented. Particular mention was made of Innes' painting, "Sunset in the Woods" which hangs on the walls of this gallery. The beautiful bronzes to be found in the Cocheran gallery were told of in the paper read by Miss Woodbridge.

The collection of bronzes is a very large one some 118 pieces in all, and among them is found the Barre lion, the work of Barre, the celebrated French sculptor. This work in plaster adorns so many of our homes that doubtless everyone has seen it. A record of Caruso and Kreisler, on the Victrola, was inserted here on the program. Two readings by Mrs. Burnham, a particularly appropriate

GIRLS! HAVE A MASS OF BEAUTIFUL HAIR SOFT, GLOSSY, WAVY

25-cent bottle destroys dandruff and doubles beauty of your hair.

Within ten minutes after an application of Danderine you can not find a single trace of dandruff or falling hair and your scalp will not itch, but what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use, when you see new hair, fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair—growing all over the scalp.

A little Danderine immediately doubles the beauty of your hair. No difference how dull, faded, brittle and scraggy, just moisten a cloth with Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. The effect is amazing—your hair will be light, fluffy and wavy, and have an appearance of abundance; an incomparable lustre, softness and luxuriance.

Get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter, and prove that your hair is as pretty and soft as any—that it has been neglected or injured by careless treatment—that's all—you surely can have beautiful hair and lots of it if you will just try a little Danderine.

one, "The Land of Our Birth," and another, "Grandfather's Clock," which also caused the hearers to hark back to colonial times, were delightfully rendered. Miss Bosworth's paper on the Congressional Library at Washington followed.

Completed in 1897 and the largest library building in the world, covering four acres, its architecture, said by all who know to be masterpiece, is strictly American. The entrance hall exceeds in beauty any similar hall in the world. One of the most interesting features, aside from the books which everyone is free to read at the library but only official Washington can take from the building, is the mural decoration. Here H. O. Walker has allowed his fancy to ramble in the recreation into art of poetry and John Alexander has symbolized inventions and civic enterprises. Pictures illustrated the various papers, adding much to their interest.

At this most delightful of afternoons, Mrs. Z. W. Moss presided in the absence of both the president, Mrs. C. H. McKenney and Mrs. Mahlon Forsythe, who are both wintering in the south.

Fifty Years Together

The parents of Rev. Olin M. Shaw of this city, Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Shaw of Polo, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary Sunday with the members of their family about them. Those present were their sons, Rev. Olin M. Shaw of Dixon; W. A. Shaw of the State Utility Commission, Chicago; O. L. Shaw and E. B. Shaw, superintendent and city salesman, respectively, of the Grand Union Tea Co. of Des Moines, Ia.; Dr. E. A. Shaw, a leading surgeon of Des Moines; their daughters, Mrs. W. L. Eikenberry of Chicago, and Mrs. W. S. Price of Royerford, Pa.; whose husband is superintendent of the Curtis Publishing Co., of Philadelphia; son-in-law, W. L. Eikenberry, a professor in Chicago University; two sisters of Mrs. Shaw's, Mrs. S. W. Miller of Cedar Rapids, Ia., and Mrs. Lincoln Hartzell of east of town; and a brother, William Newcomer of Pine Creek.

Mrs. Melissa Shaw, wife of a brother of Mr. Shaw, and Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Geeting of Polo were also guests. W. A. Shaw of Chicago was master of ceremonies and Rev. O. M. Shaw of Dixon speaker during the after dinner hour given over to toasts. Fifty dollars in gold was presented the esteemed couple, one golden dollar for each golden year of their life together.

Mr. Shaw was born in Ogle county seventy-seven years ago and has always been engaged in farming until a few years ago. Now he is interested in maintaining a two acre strawberry patch, a sight worth going many miles to see when in bloom and fruit. Mrs. Shaw is a native of Maryland.

At Kime Home

Hoi Polloi Club

The Hoi Polloi club met Monday evening at the home of Mrs. Louis Leydig, the members enjoying the pleasant entertainment furnished by the hostess, as well as spending a very busy evening sewing for the needy. Dixon has a number of families this winter that are needing help and this club, though not a large one, is doing what it can to alleviate conditions in a number of homes. The next meeting will also be held at the home of Mrs. Leydig, with her sister, Miss Marie Madden, as hostess. The sewing will be continued at this meeting.

Rebekah Meeting

The Rebekahs will give a benedict dinner for the Rebekah old folks' home Saturday evening from 5 to 7. An elaborate menu with chicken pie as the piece de resistance will be served.

"A small price for cats lasting until seven.

Then plenty of fun till after eleven. "If not well pleased at the end of that time,

"We'll hand back your cash and with it a dime," say the Rebekahs.

Woman's Auxiliary Dinner

Some sixty responded to the invitations issued by the entertainment committee of the Woman's Auxiliary of the Presbyterian church to the dinner given at the church last evening, and everyone evidently had a good time to judge from the hum of conversation and the merry laughter arising from the four long tables where the guests were seated. Bright red carnations and shaded candles made the tables attractive. Odd bits of humor on cards at the various places furnished a means of breaking the ice—though there wasn't any evidence of any congelation. A very good dinner was served.

The appointment of a number of committees by the president, Miss Hitchcock, interrupted the conversation for a few minutes. Mrs. Thompson, Mrs. Livingston and Miss Lillian Morris were appointed to act as a nominating committee and Mesdames Keller, Rosecrans, Dauntler, Richardson, Watrous, and Lazier as the committee on refreshments for the reception to follow the "Old Folks' Concert" to be given by the missionary society, with the assistance of the various other church organizations. On the evening of Feb. 24th, The president also urged the necessity of the members becoming acquainted with the many recent additions to the Auxiliary by making personal calls.

GRACE CHURCH MEETING

Last evening the members of the Grace Evangelical church met at the church in a special call meeting to hear the report and view the plans for the proposed addition to the church presented by the building committee, who were appointed at a call meeting, Oct. 14th.

The session opened with song service and devotion, which was held in the main auditorium; then with the pastor leading the way nearly all descended to the parlors of the church, where awaited them long tables prettily decorated in pink and white festooning and blooming potted plants with pink and white blossoms. After singing the divine blessing they were seated, the building committee being at the head of the table, and the members present, about 65, then partook of dainty refreshments, consisting of pink and white brick ice cream, cake and delicious coffee, such as few save the wives of the building committee can prepare.

Great credit is due the committee who had this in charge, the pastor's wife, Mrs. Divan, as chairman, and wives of the building committee, Mesdames Fred Smith, Bruce Zigler, J. U. Weyant and Homer Senneff. This committee also served.

The pastor called the meeting to order and presented blue print plans of the new structure. The meeting was then thrown open; after open discussion for two and one half hours it was discovered that specifications were lacking and a motion was made to instruct the building committee to get complete specifications so that the cost may be determined. Everyone seemed interested. The pastor stated that he was much pleased with the frankness manifested. Hearty good-will prevailed. The meeting adjourned at 11 o'clock subject to the call of the chair.

Mrs. W. D. Drew has returned from Chicago where she was invited to be a guest at the 25th anniversary dinner given by Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Hughes, formerly of Dixon, at their home, 4335 Clarendon avenue, Thursday, Jan. 27th.

In the even in following the dinner cards and music were enjoyed. Mr. and Mrs. Hughes' three sons, Clarence, Edward, and George, were all present. Clarence Hughes was recently in Dixon where he served as best man at the Crabtree-Doyle wedding.

WET VS. DRY DEBATE

Hall and Summers, who gave their famous debate, "Wet vs. Dry," yesterday to crowded halls in Sterling and Rock Falls, will appear this evening at the Methodist church. Representing respectively a saloon keeper and a liquor commissioner, their debate is full of humor and at the same time a thought producing presentation of the wet and dry question.

Until You Have Worn a Wirthmor You Can Have No Fair Idea of Just How Good a Waist One Dollar Will Buy.

New Wirthmor Models on Sale Tomorrow

It's because these Wirthmor Waists are so entirely different and so greatly superior to the kind of Waist one dollar would ordinarily buy—that we tell you of them so frequently: This we know—that when anyone learns how good these Waists really are; how distinctive and appealing are the styles; how well they fit and wear, they buy them again and again and would not think of going elsewhere for their Waists for nowhere else could they spend their money for waists so advantageously. We would like you to see the extremely pretty styles that go on sale tomorrow.

FEBRUARY 2 1916

BRYAN, 415 B. C.

The ancient city of Syracuse had its lesson in preparedness more than 2,000 years ago. It also had its Bryan.

Thucydides, reporting the speech of a peace-at-any-price advocate of the day, forestalled by 23 centuries the men who are assuring the United States that armies are unnecessary and navies a foolish waste of money. There is a familiar ring to the words of the ancient statesman:

"Even if the enemies were to come, so distant from their resources and opposed to such a power as ours, their destruction would be easy and inevitable. Their ships will have enough to do to get to our island at all and to carry such stores as will be needed. They cannot, therefore, carry an army large enough to cope with such a population as ours."

The speech might be a verbatim report of any American gentleman whose high-minded resolutions to combat war have blinded him to the need of adequate preparedness. Observe that the same argument—America is protected sufficiently by her isolation between two oceans—entered largely into the ancient Bryan's summary of Syracuse's position. Coupled with it is the same lack of military knowledge that characterizes half of the arguments of some of those who are today opposed to armaments.

"They will have no fortified place from which to commence their operations, but must rest them on no better base than a set of wretched tents and such means as the necessities of the moment will allow them."

"But in truth, I do not believe that they would ever be able to effect a disembarkation. Let us, therefore, set at naught these reports as altogether of home manufacture and to be sure that if an enemy does come, the state will know how to defend itself in a manner worthy of the national honor."

This was all very well for the time. History shows that the Athenians were able to conquer all the obstacles of distance and inability to find a military base suggested by the counsellor, and had it not been for the treachery of Alcibiades, the city would have been destroyed.

Syracuse was as far, in that day, from Athens as is the United States from Europe, and no modern Alcibiades can be relied upon to save the country.—Syracuse Post-Standard.

BLUEBIRDS BEFORE LONG.

Better be ready for him, for he's coming pretty soon. He's not so very far away now. Other birds went south in the fall, and left a few stragglers of this family wintering in the thickets along the coast in Delaware and south Jersey. The slightest hint of warm weather and he'll be back with his song and his gay plumage, and you'll want him to remain. He's the bluebird.

Even on his regular schedule he is one of the earliest arrivals. He breeds so early as March, and sometimes before the snow is gone you will see him hunting around for a nesting site.

That's the best time to encourage him to remain. Place a bird box on a tree and see how quickly he rejects it for his spring home. He prefers it on an apple tree, a fence post or a shade tree, about ten feet from the ground.

His thin, floating song will repay you many times for your invitation this spring. The bluebird is another member of the big thrush family and he is typically an American bird. Formerly he was here in great numbers. Since the woodman's axe has destroyed so many trees which provided him with nesting sites, he has gradually disappeared. Now bird lovers are trying to win him back by providing him with nest boxes.—Philadelphia North American.

THIS IS MADNESS.

The United States has not a single battleship in the Pacific ocean that is capable of meeting a modern Japanese dreadnought, and the Panama canal is blocked for a time. According to the army war college, Japan, using 50 per cent of her available tonnage, could land 95,745 men and 24,416 animals on the Pacific coast in 22.5 days and could return, reload to the extent of 75 per cent of her tonnage and bring back 142,622 more men and 36,623 animals in 41 days. Russia, Germany and Great Britain are all fully occupied. Japan alone of the great prepared powers has finished her part of the war and has her hands free.

And this is the moment when the immigration committee of the house of representatives writes into its immigration bill a drastic and offensive clause against Japanese immigration to the United States!

Sometimes it seems as if there were men entrusted with the destinies of this nation who lack the very first elements of common sense.—Buffalo Express.

THE BABES IN THE WOODS.

We have locks on our doors, as a means of defense against marauders, and besides the locks on the doors, we have the laws of the land, and the paid police to help protect us. But as a nation, our doors are wide open, international law are regarded by certain powers as "scraps of paper" and we have to be our own policemen. We sleep in fancied security and our sweet young innocence must be a source of much amusement to those grisly warriors on the other side whose every thought has always been toward preparedness.

OUR "NATIONAL WHAT-IS-IT."

It is with feelings of peculiar and scarcely definable pride that American people can read of the peregrinations of Friend House. He goes from country to country as the personal representative of President Wilson, though no such office is known, and what he says and what he reports all alike is unknown to the people whose chief officer he represents. As the national What-Is-It he walks by himself.—Hartford Courant.

All of the belligerents of Europe "have it in for" Uncle Sam, and when they get their own difficulties settled they may join together and finish us, although if we were no better prepared than we are now, any one of them could do it.

It is reported that about one-fourth of the students at Annapolis have failed in their study tests and will be asked to resign, all of which does not increase the strength of the navy.

Daddy's Bedtime

The Beaver Boys
Story— Beat Their Friends
Bobsledding.

Hooryay! Off They Dashed.

ONE wintry, snappy, cold, clear night," began daddy for two eager children, "Teddy Muskrat and his friend, Johnnie Meadowmouse, decided to go bobsledding down a mile long hill that ran past Farmer Snoopingdyck's old red barn. Now, neither Teddy nor Johnnie had very much money to buy pleasures. Neither did they have any hammer and nails to build bobs with. So you must please try to understand how long, how very long, it had taken them to save up pennies to buy their two shiny new red bobsleds."

"How did they earn their money, daddy?" asked Jack, who had a bargain with his mother to earn 3 cents every morning he swept off the back veranda for her.

"Well," said daddy, "Teddy earned his pennies by daily helping to clean out his mamma's mud kitchen. Mud kitchens, you see, just naturally get very dirty, and as Teddy's mother had rheumatism in her left great toe she often paid her son to clean house for her. And Johnnie Meadowmouse earned his pennies by digging for worms from Farmer Snoopingdyck's field. My dears, you would weep if all through the fall when other young things were playing and having a good time you could have seen Johnnie Meadowmouse all loaded down with wheat grains for his mamma to stow away for winter dinners. She had a large family of children, you see. But the very happy point is that both Teddy and Johnnie by their own long efforts really had earned enough pennies to buy themselves bobsleds."

"The sleds didn't have to be very big, did they?" grinned Jack.

Daddy smiled. "Well, the snappy cold winter night came at last, and when Teddy Muskrat and Johnnie Meadowmouse got to the top of Farmer Snoopingdyck's long hill that ran past his old red barn what do you think they found?"

Jack and Evelyn guessed and guessed.

"They found the whole huge family of Beaver boys sliding downhill on their tails!" daddy cried. "All the beavers, you know, have broad, flat tails about a foot long. They just tuck them under, stand on them and—hooryay! off they dash, coasting the whole mile of Farmer Snoopingdyck's hill. 'Huh!' sniveled Teddy Muskrat as he stood and watched his rivals merrily spinning past, taking up so much of the hill that he hardly had room to put his little red bob down. 'I don't see why I should save up my pennies to buy bobs when the Beaver kids come along and beat me coasting on their tails!'"

"Oh, tell it again, daddy!" cried Jack.

But daddy only kissed him good night.

CURRENT COMMENT

Hillsboro Journal: The interest which Congressman Loren E. Wheeler is showing for the people of this district is winning for him friends daily. Congressman Wheeler is out for a postoffice building for Hillsboro for a postoffice building for Hillsboro government munition plant at Springfield. The people are finding that Congressman Wheeler did not go to Washington to view the scenery but work for them.

Peoria Transcript: Illinois' white slave committee reports poverty as the main cause of vice among women, and yet it recommends a minimum weekly wage of $8. Doubtless Barratt O'Hara and others of the committee winked knowingly when the recommendation was read to the senate.

Monmouth Review: British authorities say that women are better ammunition makers than men. Which reminds us that less than two years ago woman's place, in England particularly, was in the home.

Alton Times: A vice commission is supposed to be above suspicion, but our Illinois commission of that name is now being investigated to ascertain whether it is, itself, wholly virtuous.

Elgin News: There is said to be great profits in the raising of wild game, such as ducks, pheasants, etc. In fact the experiment has been successfully tried in this vicinity, hundreds of pheasants being raised and sold on a farm not far from St. Charles. Not only do the birds bring high prices but the eggs sell as high as thirty dollars per dozen. Perhaps more of the dairy farmers hereabouts growing tired of the hard work of Decatur Herald: The so-called Andrew Jackson flag which the Illinois legislature so generously returned a year ago to the New Orleans daughters of 1812 is now claimed by Mississippi. The claims of both states are largely apocryphal, as pointed out at the time the transfer was made. New Orleans would have been quite as likely to present a flag to Jackson in 1812 as Juarez would be to give one to Villa today.

PRINCESS THEATRE

Tonight the Princess theatre will show two features of exceptional merit which Manager Slothower has booked for his patrons. The first is a two reel Reliance drama, "The Law of Success," with Olga Gray and Charles West in the leading roles, a heart interest story of a man's success in business and happiness brought about by his clever and loving wife.

The other feature is a two reel Keystone comedy entitled "The Little Teacher," with Mabel Normand, Syd Chaplin, brother of the famous Charlie Chaplin and Roscoe Arbuckle in the leading roles. This is one of the funniest comedies ever seen in Dixon, Manager Slothower deserves credit in obtaining these features for theatregoers of Dixon.

OPERA HOUSE

"For His Sake," a four act comedy drama, was the offering of the J. Willard Bayley Stock Co. last night. The plot is woven about two men, loyal friends, a poor musician and an equally poor poet, and an opera star, with whom both are in love. Mr. Bayley and Thomas Dodd were the friends and Miss Elliott the singer. All gave worthy interpretation of their parts. Good work was also done by Mr. Royale as the German musician and Thos. Coulthard as the elder John Walker. The piece was well equipped with special scenery and the ladies of the company displayed some very fetching gowns.

Tonight the offering will be the quaint comedy of the Sol Smith Russell type, entitled "A Mother's Love." The scenes are laid in the Adirondacks. The comedy is plentiful and refreshing, with a beautiful love story and a good moral. The Bayley Co. is by far one of the best seen in Dixon in many years.

FAMILY THEATRE

The next release on the Metro program is "Emmy of Stork's Nest" produced by the Columbia Picture corporation and starring Mary Miles Minter, the charming young actress. It will be shown at the Family theatre.

This story is made from the novel of the same name by J. Breckenridge Ellis and is, briefly, as follows:

Benton Cabot, raised in the city, learns that his uncle has died and left his home to him in the mountains of Missouri. Arriving at the mountains, Cabot meets Emmy Garrett, the role essayed by Miss Minter. Though untutored, she is as fragrant and wholesome as a wild flower, and Cabot immediately falls in love with her.

When Emmy begins to evince a liking for young Cabot she is poisoned against him through the trickery of the Storks. Emmy is induced to drive Cabot out of her cabin during a furious storm, but soon relents and follows him. Cabot is found drowning where he failed to ford a swollen stream, and Emmy saves him.

Later it is found that the Storks are counterfeiters. When the sheriff and his posse start after them they flee and attempt to take Emmy with them. The girl is rescued by Cabot after a thrilling encounter with the desperadoes. Realizing the officers are close upon their heels, the Storks flee in a wagon, but they perish when the wagon goes over a cliff.

GERMANS BRING PRIZE INTO U. S.

Late in the afternoon it was authoritatively stated that the Moewe took the prize. Some of the sailors on the Appam wore caps with the word "Moewe" on the bands.

Names of Moewe Victims.

The names of the steamers sunk by the raider, which captured the Appam, are given as the Trader, the Arthur, the Corbridge, the Ariadne, the Dromonby, the Farrington and the Clan MacTavish.

Captured Off Canary Islands.

The Appam capture was made off the Canary Islands and the vessel crossed the Atlantic, a distance of approximately 4,200 miles, with a prize crew on board and a German commander on the bridge.

When the Appam left Dakar, on the west coast of Africa, for Plymouth on January 11, she carried 160 passengers, twenty German citizens who were being sent to England for internment and a crew of 155 men.

Presents Legal Complications.

Washington, Feb. 2.—What is expected to prove one of the most serious complications of the European war so far as this government is concerned, developed when the British merchant steamer Appam, previously believed lost at sea, reached Norfolk in charge of a German prize crew. The Appam's final disposition will present to this government a number of very serious problems. This was the first prize of the European war to enter a United States port.

It has been agreed, however, that this government shall stand on the letter of The Hague agreement. This provides that the question of whether the Appam is a legal prize shall be referred to Germany, which will have a prize court reach a decision. There is not the slightest doubt that the decision will become acute. The Hague agreement says that a "lawful prize" coming into a neutral port must leave within a reasonable time, otherwise it shall be interned. Inasmuch as the British authorities already are understood to be sending warships to the Virginia Capes to recapture the Appam, it is certain that she will be interned.

CASTOR OIL HUSTLED TO PRESIDENT'S CAR

Pullman Conductor's Mistake Causes Amusing Incidents.

Des Moines, Ia., Feb. 2.—Western Illinois found an amusing way to indicate its hospitable attitude toward President Wilson. As a result there is an accumulation of five bottles of castor oil, assorted sizes, aboard the President's special train.

It happened because somebody in the party made inquiry whether a bottle of the time honored remedy was available. He said he wanted it for his typewriter. Without telling anybody, the Pullman conductor telegraphed ahead requesting that a bottle of castor oil be put aboard the train.

The request leaked through the telegraph office all the way to the Illinois boundary line. Each time the train slowed down a village apothecary or some other accommodating person would trot along beside the train and hand a bottle to the conductor. It ended when an old catsup bottle filled to the cork was put aboard and the Secretary to the President ordered an embargo.

At Davenport a box of cigars labeled "America First" was put aboard the train.

AGRICULTURE MAKES THE HOME ITS CENTER

UNIVERSITY OF ILLINOIS PROFESSOR COMPLETES BOOK ON SOCIOLOGY

(Associated Press)

Urbana, Ill., Feb. 2.—"Agriculture makes the home its center. The men are too few and scattered to make boarding houses profitable, and there is little opportunity for women to find employment except about homes," said Prof. Edward C. Hayes, of the University of Illinois in a book on Sociology just published in which he discusses the work of women in the city and in the country. "In the city," he continues, "Women as well as men can readily find other work and betake themselves to boarding house existence and even girls living with their parents do not find their interests centering so predominantly in home activities, but all members of the household may scatter after breakfast to work with other groups in quarters of the city remote from each other."

Such questions as the Widow's Pension, the proper care of dependent children, education, crime and criminals, wealth and other topics of significance to society as a whole are discussed. In the chapter "Race and Eugenics," he said, "Not that we want an increase in the number of children born, but rather that we want an increase of the number of children born in families where they are both well born and properly nurtured."

URGES RESEARCH IN ALL LOCAL HISTORY

STATE NORMAL TEACHER SAYS WORK WILL AWAKEN "HISTORICAL MINDEDNESS"

(Associated Press)

Charleston, Ill., Feb. 3.—Research in local history as a part of history work outside the text book is the latest method employed by teachers to awaken "historical mindedness" in their students. Prof. Thomas of the Eastern Illinois State Normal school is the originator of this method of teaching and reports from educators who have adopted his suggestion indicate it has proved successful wherever tried.

"By actually experiencing the difficulty of obtaining full and accurate information on any particular event in the past the students will better realize the significance of the scientific study of history," said Prof. Thomas, discussing the development of his idea. "It is not necessary to attempt very big or very general topics; the students may learn to work up well organized, accurate and carefully documented theses from research on very simple subjects."

SYNOPSIS.

Cranford, an international secret agent, back from Europe, decides to go fishing at Pidgeon Island. He does not know that Diana, a handsome young girl, has already arrived there.

CHAPTER II.

The Man With a Scar.

"Eight thousand of my money gone to glory," snarled the older man.

"Eight. Wouldn't let me pay duty. Condemned them. And your swell gets his fifty-fifty for his little game of I-spy. If I hadn't broken this leg! It will be three weeks before I can use it. Push the button."

"The button won't help you. Leave that stuff alone."

"Hoity toity! I know what I want. Push it."

The young man did so, not without open contempt. "I'll start out. It will be a job, but I believe I can handle it."

"And this other affair coming off, with me here like a dead man?"

"I have told you that that will be handled all right. Besides, it is my concern anyhow."

"Where did you get them?"

"That also is my affair. If you want my advice you'll stick to this room till the thing is done. They may follow you."

"You're deep, boy."

"Ah! noncommittally. 'I'll be in again late tonight. Keep awake if you can.'"

"With this leg I won't have any trouble."

Meanwhile Cranford went directly to his apartments. He had arrived in America only the day before. He found his man taking off the sheets from the furniture. All the windows were open. The air which blew in was mild and summery. It was a promise of good weather.

"Don't bother, Warren, about fixing the rooms. I have decided to go up to the lake and fish for three or four weeks."

"Yes, sir."

"You haven't bought any groceries?"

"No, sir."

"Then you can while away the time on your truck farm till I notify you of my return. Get out my fishing stuff and the old kit-bag. You know exactly what I shall need."

"You'll be taking your guns, sir?"

"Might as well. And slip in the automatic while you're about it. It's some sport porting cans and bottles."

"I'll attend to everything, sir. What time shall I meet you at the station?"

"Somewhere around midnight. Train leaves at 12."

"Just before you came a man called."

"Who?"

"He wouldn't give his name, sir. Letter of introduction, he said. When I told him that you had just returned from Europe he said he'd call again."

"Master and man looked at each other steadily."

"Well?"

"Very good looking chap, sir; well dressed, only I didn't like his smile."

"Have you ever seen him before?"

"His face is new to me, sir."

Cranford walked over to one of the windows and gazed seriously at the touch of color across the river in the wooded highlands.

Suspicion is not good for the soul, and he was beginning to find that all strange faces aroused distrust. How he hated it all, this life of his! How like he was to that pasty faced boy at school who was forever running with tales to the teacher!

A sneek, so whispered his pride and breeding; an honest competence, spoke his manhood. Cheats, liars and thieves. And his business was to watch them, warn the government and take his title of the spoils.

It was the little which had the acid bite. If only he were doing it for the sport, the adventure! But no; he wanted money and the good things money bought. His friends? Many a time over coffee they were going to boozy Uncle Sam when they landed.

In honor he could not warn them to be still; in honor he had to make known their childlike confessions. This kept his spirit writhing always. More than once he had been tempted to take a plunge in Wall street. One throw of the dice—riches or beggary. And he hadn't had the nerve!

Between him and his prodigal grandfather stood the memory of that bulwark of caution—his father. Having his father as an example, he became all caution, caution; hesitated when opportunity knocked and lost many chances to re-establish the fortunes of the house of Cranford.

"Slender, rather dark, medium height, good hands, clean shaven, with a little white scar on the left side of his chin."

Cranford mused for a space.

"Can't place him. Oh, well, it doesn't matter. Maybe nothing at all. If he has a letter of introduction—Dash it, Warren, you and I are beginning to be suspicious of everybody."

"Well, sir, we can't afford to be careless now that you've started to break up the gang."

"I don't think they'll bother me seriously on this side of the water. It's the only thing that makes the game possible—the real smuggler, with his ramifications that reach into the heart of India. It's a good sporting proposition to lay those fellows by the heels. Their ingenuity is remarkable. Smead was held up yesterday. Broke his leg in Paris. Mahogany crutches. Hollow shaft, twenty diamonds worth eight thousand. His leg was really broken, and I suppose that gave him the idea of utilizing the crutches. Bought the gems in Rotterdam. The crutches stuck in his mind. My room was next to his in the Continental in Paris. It was only guesswork on my part. I didn't know for certain. Well, I'm off. I'll wear this suit on the train. Don't forget my pipes. See you at the station."

Cranford went to his club for dinner. He found three or four lonely bachelors—old friends—and they sat at the same table. Talk ran into every conceivable channel—women, horses, the light operas then going, boating, boxing and even the disfigurement of the famous gambler, Smead, who had been caught finally with the goods on his return from Europe. Cranford's coffee tasted bitter.

Before going to the station he went into the bar of one of the nearby hotels for some cigars. He was leaning against the cigar stand, next to the bar, when two strangers at his side clicked their glasses and spoke a phrase which puzzled and surprised him.

"Pidgeon Island?"

"Square away?"

The two men drank and departed. Pidgeon Island! Cranford turned.

They had paused at the cashier's desk. One was tall, thick set, gray haired, ruddy faced, with an air of prosperity. His companion was short and wiry and taciturn of expression. His lip was adorned by a cropped mustache, which stood out like the bristles of a toothbrush.

Cranford laughed silently.

Fishermen it is himself, for only a bass fisherman would ever mention such a spot as Pidgeon Island. Doubtless he would see them again.

By the ticket booth he met Warren.

"The man with the scar has been wandering about. I have an idea that he's been following me."

"Did he get a ticket?"

"Takes the Montreal express."

"I'd like to have a good look at him. It might come in handy some day. But still it may be some one I met in the smokeroom coming over."

"Your train leaves in twenty minutes, sir. You can go aboard now if you wish. Suppose we wander out to the gates. You go ahead and I'll follow with the porter. If I see him I'll tip you off, sir."

"Good idea!"

Warren loitered about the stairs. (The terminal had not been finished at depend upon Cranford's bounty. He had a truck farm over in New Jersey that paid him well. He was like a man who had tasted a rare vintage—all other wines palled.

He was adventurous in spirit, and once upon a time Cranford had plucked him out of the net of commonplace, a wild scramble over roofs, the spat-spat of bullets against brick and stone, down into a strange skylight, and a mad dash into the street. Smugglers of the lower grade, bent upon reprisal.

Presently Cranford passed out of the gates to his Pullman.

The dark, handsome young man with the scar on his chin was absolutely unknown to him. What did he want? What was in the air?

The young man immediately left the gate. Further up the line he stopped to speak to a short and wiry man with a bristling mustache.

"I'm going back to Smead. I'll follow in a few days. Keep under cover. Go fishing. I'll write you a description of this Cranford chap. He's leaving tonight for the American side."

"What?"

"Yes. Got his guns and fishing tackle. May be a blind; again, we may know nothing. Up to you two to find out. If he's really fishing why, there's no worry. We need not change any of our plans. Besides, he never works on this side. Fish, you two. Put up a bluff anyhow. No cards, no whisky. The old man'll break you if you slip up through carelessness. Good luck to you!"

Half an hour later he was back in Smead's room.

"Well, boy?"

"Cranford left tonight for the river. Now, don't get excited. He had his guns and tackle. Probably goes to fish and hunt. His valet has gone over to Jersey. It's not possible that Cranford knows anything, but he has the devil's own luck in falling on to things. I'm going to get into his rooms tonight and take a look at his correspondence. I want indisputable proof."

"Don't you've got nerve. Where did you get it?"

"Maybe a little from you—maybe a little from her. She must have had nerve to marry you, knowing what she did."

"Leave your mother out of this talk. What's the matter with you lately, anyhow?"

"Gets under your ribs to think of her, eh?"

"After all, I am your father."

He spoke calmly. He knew of old the futility of loosening the heat of his wrath against this boy, who always grew correspondingly cold and mocking.

"To papa, lovingly from his son Donald," said the young man in a high piping, childish voice. Then he whirled upon the man in the chair. "Mandlin sentiment from you doesn't fit in. Drop it. If I'm your son it's only one of those chances of life. I had nothing to do with it. I'm merely your lieutenant. I'm in the game for the sport and the cash. In one thing only do I differ from you—I never break my word and don't you to me. Very few persons know that I am Michael Smead's son. For that I'm grateful. You stay here in New York. I'll handle this job. Going uptown now to Cranford's."

For a space of thirty seconds he stared jelly into his father's eyes, shrugged and made for the door, which he opened and closed gently enough.

Smead glared at the door panels, but saw only the pictures and tableaux of a rugged life. Did he regret any of it? At that moment he could not say. But fear of a kind crept into his lion-like heart. What lay in the soul of this offspring of his?

NO MORE BACKACHE
NO MORE MISERY

If you suffer with pains in your back and sides or have any signs of kidney or bladder trouble such as rheumatic pains, puffy swellings under the eyes or in the feet and ankles, if you are nervous, tired and run down, or bothered with urinary disorders, Solvax will quickly and surely relieve you of your misery.

Solvax is the most potent remedy yet devised for ridding the system of uric acid and driving out all the poisonous impurities which cause such trouble. It neutralizes, dissolves and makes the kidneys sift out all the uric acid and poisons left by the blood, and renders the kidneys and urinary organs clean, vigorous and healthy.

Rowland Bros., the popular druggists, say that no medicine ought to be paid for unless it does the user some good. They therefore sell Solvax under a positive guarantee to quickly relieve the worst cases of kidney trouble or refund the money. Try Solvax today and if you cannot see and feel a decided change for the better just go to Rowland Bros. and tell them you want your money back and they will return it without question. This is the strongest argument that can be offered in behalf of any medicine.

GOOD WORK
FOR SICK WOMEN

The Woman's Medicine Has Proved Its Worth.

When Lydia E. Pinkham's remedies were first introduced, their curative powers were doubted and had to be proved. But the proof came, and gradually the use of them spread over the whole country. Now that hundreds of thousands of women have experienced the most beneficial effects from the use of these medicines, their value has become generally recognized, and Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the standard medicine for women.

The following letter is only one of the thousands on file in the Pinkham office, at Lynn, Mass., proving that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is an article of great merit as shown by the results it produces.

Anamosa, Iowa. — "When I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I suffered with a displacement, and my system was in a general run-down condition. I would have the headache for a week and my back would ache so bad when I would bend down I could hardly straighten up. My sister was sick in bed for two months and doctored, but did not get any relief. She saw an advertisement of your medicine and tried it and got better. She told me what it had done for her, and when I had taken only two bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound my head began to feel better. I continued its use and now I don't have any of those troubles." — Mrs. L. J. HANNAN, R.F.D. 1, Anamosa, Iowa.

THIS WILL INTEREST
STOMACH SUFFERERS

Says Indigestion comes from an excess of hydrochloric acid.

A well-known authority states that stomach trouble and indigestion is nearly always due to acidity—acid stomach—and not, as most folks believe, from a lack of digestive juices. He states that an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach retards digestion and starts food fermentation in a can, forming acrid fluids and gases which irritate the stomach like a toy balloon. We then get that heavy, lumpy feeling in the chest, we eructate sour food, belch gas, or have heartburn, flatulence, water-brash, or nausea.

He tells us to lay aside all digestive aids and instead, get from any pharmacy four ounces of Jad Salts and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast while it is effervescent, and furthermore, to continue this for one week. While relief follows the first dose, it is important to neutralize the acidity, remove the gas-making mass, start the liver, stimulate the kidneys and thus promote a free flow of pure digestive juices.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and sodium phosphate. This harmless salt is used by thousands of people for stomach trouble with excellent results.

USE "CASCARETS" FOR LIVER AND BOWELS WHEN CONSTIPATED

When Bilious, headachy, sick, for sour stomach, bad breath, bad colds

Get a 10-cent box. Take a Cascaret tonight to cleanse your Liver, Stomach and Bowels, and you will surely feel great by morning.

You men and women who have head ache, coated tongue, a bad cold, are bilious, nervous, upset, bothered with a sick, gassy, disordered stomach, or have backache and feel all worn out. Are you keeping your bowels clean with Cascarets—or merely forcing a passageway every few days with salts, cathartic pills or castor oil?

Cascarets immediately cleanse and regulate the stomach, remove the sour, undigested and fermenting food and foul gases; take the excess bile from the liver and carry off the constipated waste matter and poison from the bowels.

Remember, a Cascaret tonight will straighten you out by morning. A 10-cent box from your druggist means healthy bowel action; a clear head and cheerfulness for months. Don't forget the children.

THAT SO MANY DIXON PEOPLE FAIL TO RECOGNIZE KIDNEY WEAKNESS

Are you a bad back victim? Suffer twinges; headaches, dizzy spells?

Go to bed tired—get up tired? It's surprising how few suspect the kidneys.

It's surprising how few know what to do. Kidney trouble needs kidney treatment.

Doan's Kidney Pills are for the kidneys only.

Have convinced Dixon people of their merit.

Here's a Dixon case: Dixon testimony. Kidney sufferers hereabouts should read it.

L. S. Fultz, Prop., of grocery store, 711 Depot Ave., Dixon, says: "Occasionally I get weak through my back and when I have such an attack Doan's Kidney Pills always relieve the trouble. They are an excellent medicine for kidney complaint and I highly recommend them."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Fultz had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

AIR BOMBS KILL AND INJURE 274

54 Deaths Follow Latest Zeppelin Raid on Britain.

FOUR COUNTIES BOMBARDED

Derbyshire, Staffordshire, Lincolnshire and Leicestershire Localities Visited by German Airmen—Planes Hit
About 100 Miles North of London—
Contain Many Manufactures.

London, Feb. 2.—Fifty-four persons were killed and sixty-seven injured in the Zeppelin raid made Monday night. The figures in regard to the casualties were outlined in an official statement issued here in the afternoon.
The official statement says 220
bombs were dropped on many towns
and in rural districts in Derbyshire,
Leicestershire, Lincolnshire, and Staffordshire.
Some damage to property
was caused.

Raider Hindered by Mist.
The text of the official statement is
as follows:
"An air raid last night was attempted on an extensive scale. It appears that the raiders were hampered by a thick mist. After crossing the coast the Zeppelins steered various courses and dropped bombs at several towns,
and in rural districts in Derbyshire,
Leicestershire, Lincolnshire and Staffordshire.
Some damage to property was caused. No accurate reports were received until a very late hour.

"The casualties notified up to the time of issuing this statement amount to fifty-four persons killed and sixty-seven injured."

Reach Heart of Country.
The official British statement shows that the Zeppelins penetrated to the heart of industrial England. Lincolnshire is on the east coast. Its southern boundary is seventy-five miles north of London. Leicestershire adjoins it to the southwest. Derbyshire is northwest of Leicestershire and Staffordshire is to the west of Derbyshire.
These counties comprise a strip of territory in mid-England extending more than 100 miles from the North sea.
Staffordshire and Derbyshire have important manufacturing interests. The other counties are given over largely to agriculture.

Next to Greatest Casualties.
With one exception the raid caused the greatest number of casualties of any since the beginning of the war.
On the occasion of the latest previous attack on London, made on the night of Oct. 13, fifty-two persons were killed and 114 wounded, according to an official statement. Unofficial reports said the total was much greater. It being estimated by travelers that between 150 and 300 persons were killed.

NEW U. S. TARIFF BOARD BILL

Representative Rainey Offers Measure of Broad Powers.

Washington, Feb. 2.—A bill that has the approval of President Wilson providing for the creation of a tariff commission was introduced by Representative Rainey of Illinois, a Democratic member of the committee on ways and means.

The commission is clothed with far broader and more comprehensive in-quisitorial powers than were exercised by the tariff board that operated under the Taft administration and which was later abolished by a Democratic congress. This commission may compel the production of the books and papers including confidential data in the possession of the manufacturers and there is no prohibition against the publication of such information.

Detroit, Feb. 2.—Sophia Lyons, with an international reputation as a former exceedingly clever criminal, wife or of the book "Why Crime Does Not Pay," has offered this city property valued at $35,000 for an establishment as a home for the reclaiming of children with criminal tendencies.

Sophia Lyons, now said to be worth half a million dollars, reformed some years ago. She was known as the international queen of pickpockets, shoplifters and confidence women.

Believed to Be "Silent Terror."
Albany, N. Y., Feb. 2.—Harold Severy, aged twenty-five, a harmless looking individual who claims to be a vaudeville and moving picture actor and the son of "the wealthy Melville L. Severy" of the Radcliffe hotel, Los Angeles, was arrested in Schenectady and lodged in the Albany jail on a charge of being the "Silent Terror" who with a Maxim silencer on his gun, shot and fatally wounded one Albany man and put three others in the hospital with serious wounds.

Turkey Asked About Sinking Persia—Bulgaria Next Offender Probably.

Washington, Feb. 2.—Secretary
Lansing announced the receipt of a dispatch from Ambassador Penfield at Vienna, saying that he had been informed by the foreign office that all Austrian submarines operating in the Mediterranean had reported and that none of them was concerned in the sinking of the Peninsular and Oriental liner Persia.

The Secretary also announced that he was addressing to Ambassador Morgenstern for presentation to the Turkish government an inquiry as to whether a Turkish submarine was responsible. The state department considers that the statement from Austria-Hungary closes the question of whether a submarine of that nationality sank the Persia.
